

We'd like you to meet

Brad A. Theriot

DDS

When Dr. Theriot leaves the office he's likely to pick up his power tools and get to work on his next construction project. He's been fixing things up since he was in high school and used those skills to help put himself through college. Early on he learned the importance of craft and building things that last. Turns out that same focus is vital to oral surgery. Dr. Theriot's training included a full year of internship in anesthesiology - an extra tool for his professional toolbox. His current emphasis is on dental implants, but he practices all aspects of oral & maxillofacial surgery. Whether building a cabin on the Pedernales River or working with patients, it's the intersection of craft and science that makes it fun for Dr. Theriot. Look for him at our South Austin office.
